Dear Mr. Lin,

The Harvard-Yenching Institute welcomes your participation in our programs for the coming academic year!

Please identify and nominate candidates to our programs by September 30, 2015 for the academic year 2016-17 (the following round for your university will be for the year 2018-19).

For the academic year 2016-17, your institution is invited to nominate up to a total of five (5) candidates (3 for the visiting scholars program and 2 for the visiting fellows program maximum) from among your most promising faculty and students for application to our programs. In conjunction with the mission of the Harvard-Yenching Institute, nominated scholars must be working in the humanities and social sciences with an emphasis on culture. We seek outstanding scholars whose work is academic rather than applied. Scholars whose research focus is comparative, and includes one or more Asian countries, are especially welcome. We will continue the centralized interview process that was put in place a few years ago. In addition, we would like to remind you that although there is no age limit for applicants, preference is given to younger scholars who are in the early stages of their academic career. We would greatly appreciate your posting the Harvard-Yenching Institute fellowship program information on your university web site for wide circulation.

The following is a summary of our programs:

Visiting Scholars Program

This program offers faculty members in the humanities and social sciences the opportunity to undertake 10 months of study and research at Harvard University and/or other appropriate universities. Approximately 10 to 15 applicants are chosen each year as researchers at the Harvard-Yenching Institute, and have access to the Harvard University libraries and facilities. Scholars are provided with living expenses while at the Institute. Applicants and university/academy administrators will be notified of selection results in mid-February, 2016. The selection criteria include English proficiency, academic training (including PhD degree in most cases), quality and originality of the research proposal, demonstrated depth of subject knowledge, and feasibility of conducting the research at Harvard University and/or other major universities in the United States. Selected scholars work with faculty at Harvard and/or other appropriate universities, and are required to make at least one public presentation in English on their proposed research project during their stay at the Institute.

The deadline for receipt of applications is September 30, 2015.

Visiting Fellows Program

This program provides advanced Ph.D. candidates (graduate students and junior faculty members) an opportunity to do dissertation research at Harvard University for three semesters, with access to Harvard University libraries and facilities. Fellows are also affiliated with the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences of Harvard University, and provided with living expenses while at the Institute. All applicants and university/academy administrators will be notified of selection results in mid-February, 2016. In our selection process, preference is given to advanced Ph.D. candidates working in East Asian Studies, especially with a comparative focus. The selection criteria include academic training, quality and originality of the research proposal, depth of subject knowledge and feasibility of conducting the research at Harvard University. Selected fellows study under the supervision of faculty at Harvard or other appropriate university, and participate in a weekly dissertation workshop and contribute two book reviews to the Harvard-Yenching Institute website. Please note that junior faculty members who have already obtained a doctorate are NOT eligible for this program.

The deadline for receipt of applications is September 30, 2015.

We are pleased to share that the HYI new online application system worked out smoothly and efficiently this year. We have decided to continue this practice, and nominated candidates will continue to apply online. The Institute still requires all candidates to be officially nominated by their home institutions. Further instructions about the new online application system are included in the attachment [About the online application system.PDF]. Please note: you should feel free to continue using the attached application form and relevant information, and ask interested applicants to submit a hard copy of application for the internal nomination process within your institution.

The Institute has compiled a list of helpful information for fellowship applications (including information on eligible fields and selection criteria, the research proposal, recommendation letters, interviews, and the application review process). We encourage you to share this link with your applicants:

Please note that the Institute cannot accept the applications if there are more than five (5) candidates nominated. Please also be aware that no more than 3 candidates can be nominated to the visiting scholars program and no more than 2 candidates to the visiting fellows program. The Institute does not accept individual applications for the above programs. Scholarship applications sent directly to the Institute without official approval by an authorized nominating institution will not be considered. Please acknowledge the receipt of this letter with Ms. Lindsay Strogatz via e-mail at <programs@harvard-yenching.org>.

We look forward to hearing from you regarding this matter. We appreciate your kind attention and cooperation.

Sincerely yours,

Elizabeth J. Perry
